High School Students Construct Building

A Total of 16 students from Appomattox County High School, including 10th, 11th, and 12th graders, are in the process of constructing a building to house communications equipment for the town and county.

A group of the students are pictured above working on the project that relates directly to classroom instruction. The masonery group of the Building Trades Class of ACHS have nearly completed the foundation and plans are for them to lay the cinder block and complete the entire building within a required time.

In the picture, also, is Mr. George B. "Pete" Almond, Jr. who is the teaching instructor for the project.

Named Honorary Chairman

The local honorary chairman for the 1972 Christmas Seal Campaign is the Honorable Watkins M. Abbitt, of Appomattox. The appointment was made by M. Cleveland Jones, president of the Central Virginia Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. The Honorable Abbitt will spearhead the campaign locally with the cooperation of Eddie Albert, national chairman. The Association serves: Amelia, Amherst, Appomattox, Buckingham, Campbell, Charlotte, Cumberland, Lunenburg, Nottoway, Powhatan, Prince Edward and the city of Lynchburg.

Mr. Jones, said, "We are fortunate that the Central Virginia Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association has been able to enlist the services of the Honorable Abbitt in this community's accelerated effort to eradicate tuberculosis, stop the growing incidence of emphysema and at the same time search even harder for its prevention. The abatement of air pollution is also a particular concern to the association.

"Watt" Abbitt, because he is "Watt" to everyone who knows him, throughout Virginia, is a graduate of the University of Richmond and its law school. He has served as Commonwealth Attorney for Appomattox County and was elected to the House of Representatives in February of 1948. Congressman Abbitt has decided not to run again for office and will retire to his home in Appomattox the end of this year.

Eddie Albert has functioned creatively for many years in various forms of entertainment. More recently he has become concerned about the welfare of his fellow man and now dedicates as much time as possible to finding the most effective ways of alleviating such worldwide problems as poverty, pollution, and conservation. He meets frequently with national and state officials in an effort to eliminate the pollutants that are destroying the ecology. He served as a consultant to the U. N. Conference on the Enviroment in Stockholm in June, 1972.

Of interest to many Virginians is the fact that he was discovered early in his career by Garson Kanin and cast in the Broadway production about life at Virginia Military Institute, "Brother Rat," and starred in the film production of the play.

Jones also said he felt that, "The partnership of the Honorable Abbitt on the local level and Eddie Albert on the National scene should insure a significant step forward in the work of our organization."
